Joining the National Flood Insurance Program

The National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) was established with the passage of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968. The NFIP is a Federal program enabling property owners in participating communities to purchase insurance as a protection against flood losses in exchange for State and community floodplain management regulations that reduce future flood damages. Over 20,000 communities participate in the Program.

The decision on whether to join the NFIP is very important for a community. There is no Federal law that requires a community to join the Program and community participation is voluntary. A benefit of participation is that your citizens are provided the opportunity to purchase flood insurance to protect themselves from flood losses. Another consideration is that a community that has been identified by the Department of Homeland Security’s Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) as being flood-prone and has not joined the NFIP within one year of being notified of being mapped as flood-prone will be sanctioned. This means that Federal agencies cannot provide financial assistance for buildings in flood hazards areas.

FEMA is required by law to identify and map the Nation’s flood-prone areas. The identification of flood hazards serves many important purposes. Identifying flood hazards creates an awareness of the hazard, especially for those who live and work in flood-prone areas. Maps provide States and communities with the information needed for land use planning and to reduce flood risk to floodplain development and implement other health and safety requirements through codes and regulations. States and communities can also use the information for emergency management.

To participate in the NFIP, a community must adopt and enforce floodplain management regulations that meet or exceed the minimum requirements of the Program. These requirements are intended to prevent loss of life and property and reduce taxpayer costs for disaster relief, as well as minimize economic and social hardships that result from flooding.

When FEMA provides a community with a flood hazard map, the community should carefully review these maps and determine whether flood insurance and floodplain management would benefit the community and its citizens. In making the decision whether to join the NFIP, communities need to keep in mind that homeowners’ insurance policies generally do not cover flood losses, and many homeowners and other property owners are often unaware that their property is flood-prone. Even if your community has not been identified as flood-prone by FEMA, your community can still join the NFIP. By participating in the NFIP, property owners throughout the community will be able to purchase flood insurance.

Communities that have been identified as flood-prone by FEMA need to keep in mind that property owners in a non-participating community are ineligible for most forms of disaster assistance within the identified flood hazard areas. This does not affect communities that have not had flood hazards identified by FEMA.

What must a community do to join the NFIP?

To join the Program, the community must submit an application package that includes the following information:

- Application For Participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (FEMA Form 81-64):
This one-page form asks for the following information:
  - Community name
  - Chief Executive Officer
  - Person responsible for administering the community’s floodplain management program
  - Community repository for public inspection of flood maps
  - Estimates of land area, population, and number of structures in and outside the floodplain
- Resolution of Intent: The community must adopt a resolution of intent, which indicates an explicit desire to participate in the NFIP and commitment to recognize flood hazards and carry out the objectives of the Program.

IMPORTANT FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

- Floods are the most common and most costly, natural disaster in the United States.
- Before most forms of Federal disaster assistance can be offered, the President must declare a major disaster.
- Flood insurance claims are paid whether or not a disaster has been Presidentially declared.
- The most common form of Federal disaster assistance is a loan, which must be paid back with interest.
- There are about 4.7 million flood insurance policies in force in more than 20,000 communities across the U.S.

CAN YOUR COMMUNITY AFFORD NOT TO PARTICIPATE?

- Over the life of a 30-year mortgage, there is a 26-percent (or 1 in 4) chance that a building in a floodplain will experience a flood that will equal or exceed the 1-percent-chance flood (100-year flood).
- Since 1969, the NFIP has paid over $14 billion in flood insurance claims that have helped hundreds of thousands of families recover from flood disasters.
- Approximately 25% of all claims paid by the NFIP are for policies outside of the mapped floodplain.

- Floodplain Management Regulations: The community must adopt and submit floodplain management regulations that meet or exceed the minimum floodplain management requirements of the NFIP.

Please contact your FEMA Regional Office or the NFIP State Coordinating Agency for information about joining the Program. These offices will provide an application, sample resolution, and a model floodplain management ordinance. (See “For Assistance” on the back page for contact information)

What are the requirements that a community must adopt?

The NFIP requirements are designed to ensure that new buildings and substantially improved existing buildings in flood-prone areas are protected from flood damages. The minimum NFIP floodplain management requirements that a community must adopt are located in Title 44 of the Code of Federal Regulations (44 CFR) section 60.3. The specific requirements that a community must adopt depend on the type of flood hazard data that is provided to the community by FEMA.

In addition to meeting the requirements of the NFIP, a community’s floodplain management regulations must be legally enforceable. This means that the regulations must meet applicable provisions of State enabling laws, which authorize communities to enact and enforce floodplain management regulations and be adopted through a process that meets applicable State and local due process procedures.

State authority for floodplain management varies from State to State. Some States require that communities regulate floodplains to a higher standard than the minimum NFIP requirements for certain aspects of floodplain management. Some States have a requirement that communities must submit their floodplain management regulations to the State for approval. Communities should contact the State NFIP Coordinating Agency for assistance on specific State requirements that must also be met.

As indicated above, the FEMA Regional Office or the NFIP State Coordinating Agency can provide the community with a model floodplain management ordinance and guidance on the specific requirements the community will need to adopt.

What type of regulations can a community adopt?

Community floodplain management regulations are usually found in the following types of regulations: zoning ordinances, building codes, subdivision ordinance, sanitary regulations, and “stand alone” floodplain management ordinances. How your community approaches floodplain management depends on State laws and regulations and also how your community chooses to manage its flood hazards.

What happens if a community is identified as flood-prone, but does not join the NFIP?

The following sanctions apply if a community does not qualify for participation in the NFIP within one year of being identified as flood-prone by FEMA. Non-participating communities that have not been identified as flood-prone by FEMA are not subject to these sanctions.

- Property owners will not be able to purchase NFIP flood insurance policies and existing policies will not be renewed.
- Federal grants or loans for development will not be available in identified flood hazard areas under programs administered by Federal agencies such as the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Environmental Protection Agency, and Small Business Administration.
- Federal disaster assistance for flood damage will not be provided to repair insurable buildings located in identified flood hazard areas.
- Federal mortgage insurance or loan guarantees, such as those written by the Federal Housing Administration and the Department of Veteran Affairs, will not be provided in identified flood hazard areas.
- Federally insured or regulated lending institutions, such as banks and credit unions, are allowed to make conventional loans for insurable buildings in flood hazard areas of non-participating communities. However, the lender must notify applicants that the property is in a flood hazard area and that the property is not eligible for Federal disaster assistance. Some lenders may voluntarily choose not to make these loans.
